Forgetting a Network

iOS devices

- Go to Settings --> wifi.
- Click on the blue arrow to the right of network you no longer want to connect to. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.
- Click on the “forget this network” button.

Android devices

- Long press the listed network you want to forget. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.
- Tap Forget Network.

Mac OSX

- Open System Preferences (gear icon on the dock)
- Open Network
- Click on AirPort or Wi-Fi on the left
- Click Advanced at the lower right
- Locate the name of the network that you no longer need in the list of networks and click on it to highlight it. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.
- Click the - (minus) button at the bottom of the list to delete it
- Repeat the process for any other networks that you no longer need or use
- Click OK
- Click Apply

Windows XP

- Open Control Panel, select and double click Network Connections.
- Select Wireless Network Connection, right click it and select Properties.
- Choose “Wireless Networks” tab and select existing network in preferred networks, then click Remove. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.
- Click OK.
Windows Vista, 7, 8

- Open Control Panel, click Network and Sharing Center
- Navigate to Manage Wireless Networks in the left pane and right-click on the network you want to remove. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.

Ubuntu

- Right-click on the Wireless icon
- Select Edit Connections.
- Select your Wireless Adapter
- Delete the network or change the priority. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.

Blackberry

- On the Home screen, click the connections area at the top of the screen, or click the Manage Connections icon.
- Click Set Up Wi-Fi Network > Saved Wi-Fi Networks.
- Highlight a saved Wi-Fi® network. In this case, select “UA Public Wireless or UA ResNet Wireless”.
- Press the \ key.
- To delete the saved network, click Delete.